Call for Papers
Hello,

I am writing to you on behalf of TuftScope: The Interdisciplinary Journal of Health, Ethics, & Policy, a student journal at Tufts University founded in 2001 to provide an academic forum for discussion of the pertinent healthcare and biosocial debates in today’s world. It addresses different aspects of healthcare, bioethics, public health, and active citizenship. The journal, as well as the online edition at www.tuftscopejournal.org, is edited and operated by students at Tufts University and is advised by an Editorial Board composed of undergraduates and faculty. The principle objective of TuftScope is to bring together a variety of viewpoints on the health sciences to transform thoughts and ideas into active citizenship and working policies.

We are currently accepting submissions for our Spring 2015 issue from undergraduates, graduate students, and all other individuals who wish to submit work. TuftScope accepts original articles on bioethics, healthcare policy, public/community health, medical education, biomedicine, and research in these fields. PLEASE NOTE THAT ORIGINAL RESEARCH WILL NOT BE PUBLISHED.

Submissions will be accepted until March 16, 2014. Detailed submissions guidelines and descriptions of the submission types may be found at www.tuftscopejournal.org under the “Guidelines” section. We welcome early submissions. All submissions should be sent to Rohan.Rao@Tufts.edu.

The Editorial Board hopes that you will be able to forward this call for papers to students and organizations that may be interested in submitting work to the journal. If you have any questions or concerns, please contact us at Tuftscope@gmail.com.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Rohan Rao
